WOMEN OF SOUTH WINDOW UNVEILED

Memorial at Red Cross Headquarters Presented by U. D. C.

Una, bride of the Red Cross knight, is pictured in colored glass in the window in memory of the women of the south in the civil war, presented by the United Daughters of the Confederacy, unveiled at ceremonies yesterday afternoon at the headquarters of the American Red Cross The third of the three windows on the north front of the assembly room on the second floor shows Una, heroine of Spenser's "Faerle Queen." typifying fortitude, surrounded by attendants bearing a golden heart, a cross and the lamp of wisdom.

The new window is the last of three dedicated as memorials to the women of the north and south in the war between the states, the window to the west having been presented by the Women's Relief Corps, memoralizing the women of the north, and the center window having been presented by the relief corps and the United Daughters in memory of all United Daughters in memory of all the women in the civil war.

Covered by Stars and Stripes. Mrs. Algernon Sydney Sullivan, honorary president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, pulled back the Stars and Stripes, which covered the window, the flag being caught in the arms of Mrs. Allen McCaskell Kimbrough, chairman of the unveiling committee.

Right Rev. Alfred Harding, Bishop of Weshington selembly beseed the Right Rev. Alfred Harding, Bishop of Washington, solemnly blessed the window, declaring it was "set aside to the memory of the women of the south." Judge John Barton Payne accepted the window on behalf of the Red Cross, of which he is chairman. Gen. Charles B. Howry of the United "onfederate Veterans praised the work of mercy done by the southern women during the war.

"Dixle" Is Sung.

Miss Mabel Boardman of the Red Cross called the meeting to order and turned it over to Mrs. Livingston Rowe Schuyler, president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, who presided, and who formally presented the window. Miss Josephine Houston sang "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Dixle."

Claude N. Bennett lauded the work of the women in the civil war, and Claude N. Bennett lauded the work of the women in the civil war, and told of the early days of the Red Cross. Mrs. Kimbrough read an original poem dedicated to the women of the war between the states. Following the singing of "America" the benediction was pronounced by Rev. George F. Dudley.
